What Can I Do About My Grief?

1. Keep a journal of your feelings/grief. Looking back will help you to see your progression.
2. Write a letter to the person who’s died; tell them exactly what you’re going through or resolve any "unfinished business".
3. Don't avoid Family Days -- plan ahead of time how you will make them special, what rituals will change, what will remain the same, and how you'll include the memory of the person who has died.
4. Tell others clearly what you want and need.
5. Eat right and exercise.
6. Set small goals first - accomplish them - then set bigger goals.
7. Reach out to others.
8. Be open and talk about your feelings.
9. Informal counseling (talking to family members, friends, or a clergy person).
10. Formal counseling (appointments with a professionally trained counselor or therapist).
11. CRY! Tears, whether shared with others or shed in private, can help release bottled up sadness, anger, guilt, exhaustion and loneliness. It takes more energy to keep your feelings inside than to let them out.
12. Use outside stimuli for a catharsis like a movie, play, music, or book.
13. Pray or meditate.
14. Concentrate on taking deep breaths. Give your body the proper oxygen to function completely.
15. Rely on friendships and outside help. This is not a sign of weakness.
16. Create a safe place and go there in person or in your mind.
17. Write lists of good things about the person who has died.
18. Write down the loving things they said to you that you never want to forget.
19. Take care of something other than you: a plant, a pet, a friend or neighbor.
20. Do activities that YOU enjoy.
21. Mindful moment in the shower. Imagine a waterfall, washing away the pain and fatigue, covering you and filling you with peace, strength and protection.
22. If you feel stuck, do something new.
23. Pace yourself. Don't have expectations that are too high.
24. Enjoy good memories.
25. Talk out loud to the person who has died.
26. Consider memorializing your loved one, whether it be in your home, or somewhere else.
27. Visit the place of burial or other place that holds meaning for you.
28. Consider a support group.
29. Reminisce over personal belongings or family pictures of the person who died.
30. Visit nature.
